

MADMAN CAUSES BROADWAY PANIC

Auturo Basil Dashes Toward Several Women with a Razor and Knocks Some of Them Down in Street.

ATTACKS MORRIS LESSER.

Shouts Out for President Roosevelt and Mark Hanna and Four Policemen Were Necessary to Take Him to a Police Station.

There was a panic along Broadway in the neighborhood of Spring street to-day, when a man suddenly became insane and rushed toward several women with an open razor. Before he was finally secured by one of the giants of the Broadway Squad he had knocked down a half dozen persons, but fortunately none was injured.

The madman was Auturo Basil, thirty-two years old, a cigar maker of No. 56 Third avenue. He was walking quietly along Broadway until he approached Mr. Morris Lesser, of the firm of Lesser & Company, No. 611 Broadway, who was standing in front of his store. He stopped directly in front of Mr. Lesser and without any warning lowered his head and butted the merchant in the stomach, throwing him to the street. As Mr. Lesser arose the man went at him again with lowered head, crying: "I am the wild Himalayan goat, dodge my horns if you can." Three times he butted Mr. Lesser to the pavement before he could make his escape in a neighboring doorway.

Then the madman drew a razor from his pocket and shouting: "Where is Mark Hanna? I want to see Teddy Roosevelt!" rushed at a number of women, who fled screaming from him. There was an uproar on both sides of the street, men and women calling "police" and crying: "Help! Murder!" The man rushed about aimlessly, jabbing at the air with his razor until Policeman Langan, of the Broadway squad, came up behind him and pinned his arms. Other policemen, attracted to the scene by the clamor of the panic-stricken men and women, assisted in dragging him to the Mulberry street station.

When the man got to the police station he became so violent that three policemen had to sit on him until an ambulance came from St. Vincent's Hospital. Then he was bound securely in the ambulance and taken to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue.

PROFESSIONAL BONDSMEN TO GO

Magistrate Ommen Continues
His Investigation of the Evil, and Deputy Commissioner
Davis Makes Inspection Tour.

That Magistrate Ommen, now sitting in Jefferson Market Court, is determined to learn every detail of the manner in which professional bondsmen operate was shown to-day when he continued the investigation which he started last week.

Mamie Wilson and Julia Brown were arraigned as disorderly persons, and when he learned that they had been bailed out last night the Magistrate questioned them about the matter, and as to who their bondsmen was and how they obtained him. Beyond the fact that they had been bailed out by a man named Harry Cowan, whom they said they did not know, little was learned from them. Magistrate Ommen after court had adjourned said that he did not wish to be considered the leader in the investigation of the professional bondsmen's methods, and that he was not proposing to conduct an investigation on a large scale.

"I shall continue questioning all the women that come before me," he said, "and if I find evidence of crookedness I shall turn my information over to the police. Commissioner Greene is deeply interested in the matter, and he has assured me that he will take up any complaint I make. I have made a good start, and I have no idea of dropping it until I am satisfied everything is being conducted in the proper manner."

Third Deputy Commissioner Davis, accompanied by his aide, Sergt. James Husey, made a tour of the West Thirtieth, West Twentieth, West Forty-seventh, East Thirtieth and East Fifty-first street stations last night for the purpose of learning whether or not bail bonds were being taken around in station-houses already signed by bondsmen, as was alleged recently. To-day Mr. Davis said he found nothing like what had been charged.

While making the rounds Commissioner Davis had an interesting experience with Policeman Henry Warner, of the East Thirtieth street station. He saw Warner enter a saloon. Mr. Davis followed. When Warner saw him he made for the side door. There he confronted the Deputy. Lowered his head, covered the number on his helmet and ran across the street. Mr. Davis followed, and the policeman, seeing he would not hide his identity, gave him an account of the case. The East Thirtieth street station, where Warner was suspended.

KNIGHTS IN SESSION.
ST. VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The twenty-fifth convocation of the Knights General of the Knights of St. John and Malta convened in Ferguson's Hall, in this city, at noon to-day. Eight hundred delegates were present from all parts of the United States and Canada. An address of welcome was made by the Grand Master of the city. The convocation will remain in session until Friday.

All the New Blocks in Men's Fall Hats.

One Million Dollars' Worth OF China, Glass, Statuary, Bric-a-Brac and Lamps.

And there are thousands of supplementary allied interests—conspicuously special offerings in Housefurnishings, Carpets, Upholsteries, Pictures, Linens, Blankets, Comfortables and related goods.

As you descend into the basement, pause for an instant on the level landing that breaks the short flight of stairs. Let your eyes sweep over the marvel-spread. One brief survey of the scene is more convincing than pages of newspaper announcements—intensely more impressive. All merchants advertise. Any dealer may shout his claims of supremacy and leadership in every form of speech and type. But there is one store—Macy's—that sustains its public statements with a display of merchandise combined with buying and manufacturing facilities that are unequalled anywhere else.

The products of the world whose dreamers and doers unite Art with Utility are within your grasp here.

China, Porcelain, Crystal, Gold, Bronze, Marble, Onyx, Copper, Ivory—the richest that comes from the great English makers—and from Paris, Limoges, Carlsbad, Munich, Dresden, Vienna, Milan, Florence, Rudolstadt, Nuremberg—a gathering that fulfills your finest expectations and provides all your needs—practical and aesthetic. The range of choice is almost without limit—one million dollars is the value of the articles—either on sale or easily accessible.

Of the Stock—Its variety and beauty.
Of the Prices—Their sound economy.

Test what we say—measure, judge, weigh by any fair standard—use a simple sauce-pan or a magnificent table service as a basis of comparison, and let the resulting knowledge thus secured be your guide.

Supplies for All the School Children.

Don't attempt to justify the purchase of trashy, inferior School Supplies by declaring that the children will destroy them, lose them, or swap them. Since we sell reliable qualities so cheaply—there can be no sound excuse for buying costermonger's truck—not even the apology of economy.

While boys and girls were enjoying vacation days we were busy gathering the needs that will develop with the first bell-tap for lessons. The variety is well-nigh confusing; but there is no suggestion of chaos in the display; well-ordered arrangements facilitate choosing.

Macy's Way With Oriental Rugs.

What have you been paying for Oriental Rugs? We know the answer—probably you only SUSPECT it. You have been paying various degrees of exorbitant profits. No odds what the profit, it has been exorbitant, always.

Restricted by contracted space, we—in our old store—could not accomplish very much in our efforts to combat the tenacious tendency of dealers to attach inordinately extravagant prices to such things. However, our new building—the largest in the world devoted to retailing—gives us the chance to realize a long-cherished plan. That plan, broadly and bluntly stated, means Selling Oriental Rugs on a Practical Macy Business-Like Basis.

We draw a sharp line through the "art" methods that impose heavy demands on your purse for the sake of mere sentiment. The quality and the beauty of these Rugs are evident. They need no encomiums, no praise here, and our prices upset all the well-known and long-observed traditions. They are genuinely popular. Bought as low as personal representation in the European markets can buy them, and marked on the same liberal principle that controls everything beneath this roof.

$1.49 for Anatolian Mats; a large sprinkling of rich antique pieces is among them. They are sold by others at $2.50 to $3.00.
$4.98 for Shirvans, Carabags and Hamadans—average size 3x4 1/2 feet. They are beautiful Rugs and of strong workmanship; sold by others at $8.00 to $10.00.
$7.98 for Guelji, Samarkan and Daghestan Rugs, average size 3x5 feet; fine designs and rich colorings; sold by others at $12.00 to $15.00.
$9.98 for Daghestan and Prayer Rugs, average size 3 1/2 x 5 feet. The velvet texture and marvellously intricate designs that only the Caucasians weave; sold by others at $15.00 to $18.00.
$14.94 for Daghestans, Kazaks, Cashmeres, Moussuls, Feraghans, Irans and Serabends; sizes run up to 4 1/2 x 7 1/2 feet. The designs are Orientaly quaint; the colors are restfully mellow; sold by others at $20.00 to $25.00.
$19.97 for Shiraz, Iran, Feraghan and Kazak Rugs, average size 4 1/2 x 7 1/2 feet; also a few Hall Runners, 3 1/2 x 12 feet; such colors could only come of age; softened by years, luxurious, sumptuous, silky pile; sold by others at $30.00 to $35.00.
$23.98 for Antique Daghestans, Feraghans and Irans—wonderful two thousand years ago; fine, flexible, silky, soft; sold by others at $30.00 to $40.00.
$34.98 for Anatolian Silk Rugs—the colorings are harmonious—blown blishes of pink, turquoise, ivory, green and other delicate, shimmering tints that suggest roses, cream, blossom-flecked hedgerows, sun-kissed seas and jewels; sold by others at $50.00 to $75.00.
